CU Recognizes eDOC's Expertise and Collaboration

MIDDLEBURY, VT and MIDWAY, UT – February 10th, 2010

eDOC Innovations, a complete electronic document management systems developer and CUSO continues its collaboration efforts, providing guidance and expertise to non-eDOC clients. Recently, Jeff Jorgensen, President/CEO of Sioux Empire Federal CU reached out to eDOC's collaboration engine to get industry expertise. "eDOC's willingness to collaborate with us and our other vendors in helping us design an e-Document strategy that will benefit our credit union is unusual," states Jorgensen.

Bret Weekes, President/CEO of eDOC Innovations explained, "We believe that we have an obligation as an industry-owned organization to reach out in collaboration and consultation with credit unions, even if they aren't yet a user of our products and services. Our team takes particular satisfaction in working directly with credit union executives who have vision, direction and recognition of the value and impact an e-Document strategy would bring to their credit union, and Jeff is that visionary."

Mr. Jorgensen elaborates, "I was very impressed by the assistance eDOC was willing to provide. I feel more confident in my current decision to pursue eDOC as our imaging solutions provider knowing they are this vested in the whole industry's success".

"Providing industry expertise to credit unions researching electronic document strategies doesn't always lead to creating a new partnership. Regardless of the credit union's direction, we hope that our insight and industry experience will benefit them - and if it does, then time spent was worth it. Credit unions can't do everything themselves. At eDOC we are firm believers that credit unions need a network of industry experts for support, and we want to be one of those experts", concludes Weekes.
