eDOC Streamlines Loan Closing with Electronic Signatures

MIDWAY, UT and MIDDLEBURY, VT – May 13th, 2010

eDOC Innovations, a leader in providing e-document solutions to credit unions, has recently partnered with DocuSign, a provider of electronic signatures and paperless contract execution services to release an enhanced version of ProDOC™. Idaho Central Credit Union, serving 85,000 members, has recently implemented this new solution.

The new enhancement streamlines the loan closing process by allowing it to be performed electronically through eDOC's Member Document Portal and DocuSign's online digital signature solution. This solution eliminates any paper documentation that historically has been a part of loan processing. According to eDOC, this partnership has provided a complete "Go Green" solution from loan application to closing. Idaho Central Credit Union has been a long term proponent of "Go Green" solutions and has embraced the opportunity to be a key part in this release.

"eDOC is very pleased to collaborate with DocuSign and Idaho Central in this critical stage of the enhancement process," stated Bret Weekes, President/CEO of eDOC Innovations. "What a proactive way to address the needs of credit unions in general, and Idaho Central in particular, by engaging them in the ways that enhance the value of their member relationship through easier and more convenient ways of doing routine methods and processes. We have always been able to count on Idaho Central for their input and participation. ProDOC™ is used by hundreds of credit unions across the country today and will now benefit from this enhanced capability," continued Weekes.
